STATEMENT OF DIETER WOLFGANG ENGEL

Sir:

I am a CEO employed by SCA Lohnherstellungs AG, a producer of pharmaceuticals in Kirchberg, Switzerland. I was responsible for securing signatures on the documents required for this application.

On or about April 22, May 24 and May 29, 2002, I sent the U.S. patent application identified above to Mr. Harish Parekh at his business address:

Pharma Base SA

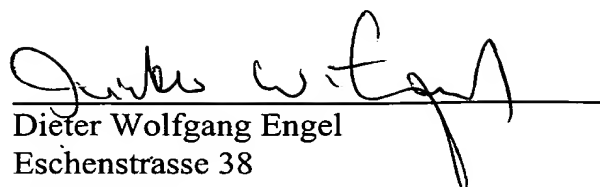

Seepark

Churerstrasse 166

8808 Pfäffikon, Switzerland

and requested that he sign the declaration which was attached to the application. Mr. Parekh refused to sign. I believe he does not intend to sign the declaration, and that further attempts to secure his signature will be unsuccessful.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true, and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements are made with the knowledge that the making of willful false statements or the like is punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patents issued thereon.

STATEMENT OF RENE WENGER

Sir:

I am a patent attorney practicing in Switzerland. I represent the assignee of the patent application identified above and was responsible for obtaining signatures on the inventors' declaration for the application.

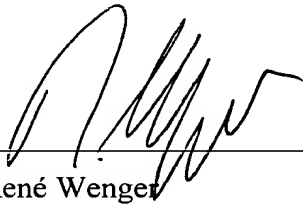

On June 20, 2002, I sent the patent application by mail to Mr. Harish Parekh, one of the inventors of the invention described and claimed in the application, with a written request that he sign the declaration and return it to my office. The letter was addressed to Mr. Parekh at his last known business address:

Pharma Base SA
Seepark
Churerstrasse 166
8808 Pfäffikon, Switzerland

Mr. Parekh has not answered my letter. To my knowledge, he has not signed the declaration, and I believe that he does not intend to sign the declaration.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true, and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements are made with the knowledge that the making of willful false statements or the like is punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patents issued thereon.
